

Peace of mind through goal, offer, & inventory control.

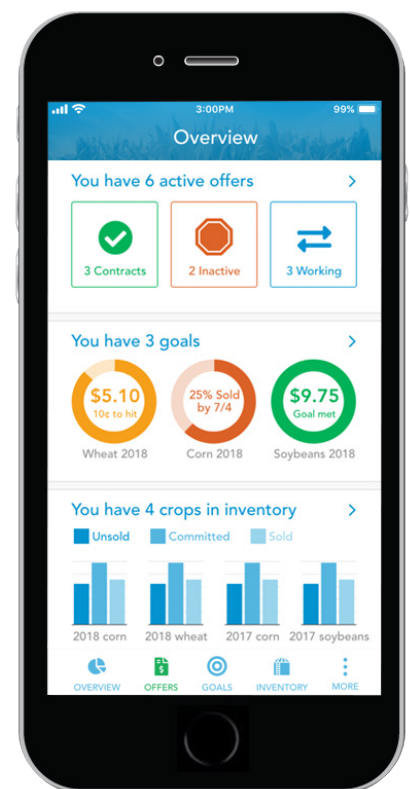

Today, you face an extraordinary, powerful set of challenges. Unfavorable basis. Oversupplies of grain. Tariffs. High input costs. Extreme weather events. Together, they create a perfect storm of volatility, which is washing away profit margins. We're here to help.

DTN Ag Marketplace is our free, independent mobile app for iOS. With it, you can find and quickly act on seasonal marketing opportunities and short-lived rallies.

It facilitates end-to-end grain sales on your schedule, from your smartphone. With it, you can take control of key decisions and do business with numerous grain buyers — all on a single, easy to use platform. You'll know when to sell, where to sell, and what to sell.

- Set and manage your marketing goals. You can create multiple goals for each commodity, setting your amounts, dates, and prices. Monitor your progress, at a glance, throughout the year to ensure you stay on course.
- Centralize your offers. You can quickly make and manage offers with many of your trusted agribusiness partners at once — without disrupting the relationships you've spent years building.

View cash bids for your closest buyers in a single view. Filter the information based on your chosen criteria. Then, make and track your offers using a single platform and account. This reduces the chance of missed opportunities by keeping them in one place. Your buyers can enter your offers on their side and push the transaction data to you via the app as your confirmation.

- Easily keep track your inventory. Enter it once and it will update automatically each time you sell grain. This ensures your information is always current, saves you time, and eliminates errors and double entries. You can also view your previous year's inventories and forecast upcoming crop inventory.

One-stop selling

With DTN Ag Marketplace's clean, simple dashboard, you can view and understand your current market position at anytime. See your sales goals, sales targets, inventory status, and average price across multiple commodity types and crop years.

DTN Ag Marketplace simplifies how you do business. It eliminates the need to manage multiple accounts and logins for each of your grain buyers' websites and trading portals. And you can be assured your data will always remain private — we never share it. At DTN, we're committed to our independence so we can protect yours.
